BEHAVIOR

Poems are objects. Language is the material for a poem in the same way that marble is the material for a sculpture. Handled this way, as material, words have no obligation to mean anything. Reading a translation of the phrase “nothing much” from a poem by Sappho has very little in common with the same two words used in a text message.

Bridge flags: Why are the flags on the bridge down? Usually when the bridge flags are not being flown it is due to weather concerns such as high winds or electrical problems with the lights required to illuminate the flags at night. Legal Advice: I am going through a divorce and need some advice. Can the City Attorney help me? No. The city cannot give advice in any private legal matter. The City Attorney's office does not represent individuals in private legal matters. Regular elections: When are the city elections held? The primary election is held in September and the general election is held in November of even-numbered years. Polling places: Where do I go to vote? Your polling place is determined by where you live. Cost for extension of premises permit: What is the cost for an extension of premises permit? There is no fee for an extension of premises permit. Extension of premises or patio permit: How do I obtain a temporary or permanent extension of premises/patio permit? Contact the City Clerk's office. Liquor license application costs: How much does it cost to obtain a liquor license? Lake Havasu City charges a $205.00 application fee a $205.00 filing fee and the Police Department charges a $29.00 fingerprint fee for a total of $439.00. Regular liquor license applications: How do I obtain a liquor license? Contact the Arizona State Department of Liquor Licenses and Control by phone or through their website. Special event application: What is the deadline to submit my application for a special event? At least thirty days prior to the event. Incorporation of Lake Havasu City: When was the city incorporated? October 2 1978. Requests for information time frames: How long will it take to get the requested information? All requests are handled in a prompt manner as reasonably as possible. Cost for information: What is the cost for information? The first 10 pages are free and $.50 per page for each additional page. High consumption: There is no way I could have used that much water. You either read incorrectly or there is something wrong with the meter. Sometimes it is very difficult to detect the reason for what seems to be an excessive amount of water used in any one month. We certainly do recognize that a meter might be misread and we can issue a service order to have the meter read verified. We have found however that most high water consumption can be directly related to an outside irrigation system. Some examples are a stuck irrigation valve a broken bubbler head or a timer that is not set correctly. When the city's meters go bad they normally slow down and stop. This means that you would be under billed rather than over billed. Rate timeframes: Why isn't everyone paying for sewer? Everyone should pay for sewer now to help reduce the rates. The method of repayment for the wastewater system debt was presented to the voters as revenue secured debt; funds will be generated by user rates and fees not tax secured debt. Because of this customers do not pay for sewer until they are connected to the system. Sewer charges: Why is there a sewer charge on my water bill? I already paid my $2000.00. The $2000.00 is a one-time fee and is assessed to all new connections to the sewer system. The fee that is charged on the same bill as the water and trash is a consumption charge based on the amount of water going through the meter. Fees are calculated on either actual water consumption or a winter quarter average. Methods of payment on Lake Havasu City bills: How can I pay my bill from Lake Havasu City? Lake Havasu City accepts the following forms of payment: cash credit card checks cashier's checks money orders automatic bank drafting and online bank payments. These payment methods are acceptable for all bills received from Lake Havasu City. Lost and found area of the Police Department: recently left my wallet on top of my vehicle and it fell off somewhere as I was driving home. Does the Police Department have a lost and found area? Yes the Property and Evidence Division frequently receives property that has been found by citizens. Most common items include bicycles key rings backpacks wallets and purses. An appointment is required to pick up property. The Property and Evidence Division is open from 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon and 1:00 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday except on legal holidays. Walk Away Program: My wife has dementia and occasionally walks away from the house without my knowing. What can I do to make sure she is identifiable if she is found wandering? The Lake Havasu City Police Department has a Walk Away Bracelet Program for senior citizens and the disabled who have a history or potential to walk away from their caregiver or nursing home. The caretaker or family member should call the Police Department for enrollment. This entails filling out a form with information about the senior citizen and setting up a time when the officer can take a picture of the senior citizen. The senior citizen will be issued a stainless steel bracelet which has the standard medical alert emblem and the front of it says 'Memory Impaired.' The back has a client number and the non-emergency police dispatch telephone number. If the senior citizen is found wandering the neighborhood the police will be contacted and the senior citizen will be returned to their caregiver.

Arrest warrant information: How can I clear my warrant? The Lake Havasu Consolidated Court issues warrants. There may be an outstanding warrant if you have missed an appearance date failed to comply with a court order or failed to pay a fine. Information regarding the amount of the warrant and other details may be obtained by calling the Lake Havasu Consolidated Court at (928) 453-0705. You can also visit the court which is located at 2001 College Drive Suite 148.

Televisions in vehicles: I recently bought an in-dash DVD player so my family and I can watch movies in my truck while my family and I are taking trips to Lake Havasu City. Is this legal? No this is illegal. - Located in the motor vehicle at any point forward of the back of the driver's seat.
- Visible directly or : indirectly to the driver while operating the motor vehicle.

Credit report checks: How can I find out if my identity has been stolen? The best way to find out is to monitor your accounts and bank statements each month and check your credit card reports on a regular basis. If you check your credit report regularly you may be able to limit the damage caused by identity theft.

Personal watercraft: My family and I recently bought a couple of personal watercraft's. What safety equipment do we need to have while driving our personal watercraft's? A person shall not operate a personal watercraft unless each person aboard is wearing a wearable personal flotation device that is approved by the United States Coast Guard. While enjoying time with my family a very rude individual kept yelling at passing boats for the females on the boats to expose their breasts and a couple of females did. Did this rude individual break any laws? Yes this person did break an Arizona law called loitering. A person commits loitering in a public place when they intentionally in an offensive manner or in a manner likely to disturb the public peace solicit another person to engage in any sexual offenses. In this case the crime would be indecent exposure. Local park hours of operation: Do the local Lake Havasu City parks have certain hours of operation? Yes the local parks are closed between the hours of 10:00 p.m. and sunrise. Illegal camping: I was recently at a local park one night with my children and noticed that a person was sleeping on the bench. Is there a local law against people sleeping in public places and local parks? Yes there is a local city law that prohibits camping in the city limits unless it is an area that is designated as an overnight camping area. Driver's license requirements for driving a scooter on the roadway: My husband recently purchased a scooter to drive back and forth to work. Does my husband need to obtain a motorcycle endorsement on his driver's license before he drives his scooter on the roadway? Yes you must have a motorcycle endorsement on your license prior to driving a scooter on the roadway. Toy vehicles upon the roadway: I have noticed kids in my neighborhood driving miniature looking motorcycles go-karts and miniature looking four wheelers. Is it legal to drive these toy vehicles around the neighborhood? No these toy vehicles are illegal to drive upon any roadway or sidewalk in Lake Havasu City. Dog license: I recently bought a puppy for my children. Am I required to obtain a dog license? Yes every dog within the city limits has to be licensed. Graffiti: I have noticed some graffiti in my neighborhood. How does the Lake Havasu City Police Department view this problem and what types of people are doing the graffiti? Graffiti is a crime not an art form. Graffiti generates fears of neighborhood crime instability and declining property values. Graffiti is not simply a maintenance problem but a complex social problem as well. If graffiti is not cleaned up the perception is that the behavior is condoned and the area is not being watched. This opens the door for other property crimes and creates an environment that tolerates violent crimes such as serious assaults and robbery. The vast majority of graffiti vandalism is the result of "tagging " committed by juveniles for the main reason of recognition. Taggers are not necessarily gang members they do not reflect any specific socio-economic background and they come from all neighborhoods of the city.

Alcohol in city parks: I am having a family reunion at one of the local parks in Lake Havasu City. Are we allowed to drink alcohol in the park? The only way that you can drink alcohol in a Lake Havasu City park is to obtain a permit from the city. If you do not obtain a permit to drink alcohol in the city park you could be arrested.

Off-road vehicles in the city limits: I live next to the power line easement in Lake Havasu City and there are a lot of off-road vehicles such as dirt bikes riding up and down this easement at all hours of the day. Is it legal for these types of vehicles to be in this area? No it is illegal for off-road vehicles to drive on the power line easement. If a police officer conducts a traffic stop on one of these off-road vehicles the driver of the vehicle could be issued a citation and his motorcycle could even be impounded because it is considered a public nuisance.

Number of packages allowed on the bus: How many packages can I bring on the bus? Scheduled Route Service: each rider is allowed as many packages that they can carry in one trip onboard the bus. Large packages sharp objects and toxic items are not allowed on the bus. All packages must be in the control of the rider and cannot block a seat from another customer. All beverages must be sealed.

New mall route: Will Havasu Area Transit have a bus route to the new mall in 2008? Subject to City Council approval HAT is planning to establish an 'Express' route to the shops at Lake Havasu Mall in the spring of 2008. The express route bus will be ADA accessible.

Emergency repairs: What is considered an emergency repair? Any life and safety issue such as loss of air conditioning roof leaking plumbing electrical issues and septic and leach field issues is considered to be an emergency repair.

Forgivable deferred loans: What is a deferred forgivable loan? This is a non-interest bearing loan that forgives itself over a period of time depending on the amount of repairs. There is a lien on the property until it is satisfied. Automated Weather Observation System (AWOS): When will the AWOS be back in service? The present AWOS is 15 years old and there are no replacement parts. We are looking at the purchase of equipment to give Unicom operators non-certified wind direction and temperature. We are working with the FAA to fund a replacement AWOS. Once a new AWOS is in place the temporary equipment that we purchase will remain as backup. No Scheduled Commercial Air Service: Why did Lake Havasu City Municipal Airport lose commercial air service and what is the city doing about it? Mesa Airlines operating as U.S. Airways Express abandoned its two flights a day between Lake Havasu City and Sky Harbor International Airport on May 6 2007 with two weeks advance notice. No reason was given. The City Council has budgeted $24 000.00 for consultant services to identify scheduled air carrier service. Land use application fees: Is my land use application fee refundable? No. The land use application fee is a processing fee used to cover staff costs involved in the advertising mailing distribution and review of an application. Whether an application is approved or denied the city cannot refund an application fee. Once an application is submitted and accepted by the city there are costs associated with that application that must be covered. Banners: Do I need a permit to place a banner at my business? Yes. A permit application is available from the Development Services Department and the annual fee is $65.81. The size of a banner(s) is based on a maximum square footage not a certain number. Banners can only be placed on building walls. Freestanding banners banners on fences etc. are prohibited. Displaying merchandise: I own a retail business and was told I could not display my merchandise in front of my store but a similar business across town was allowed. Why can't I display my merchandise? The Development Code regulates outdoor display of merchandise by zoning district. The ability to display merchandise outside is dependent upon the zoning district a property is within not the type of business. The Development Code prohibits outdoor display within the C-1 (limited commercial) zoning district and allows outdoor display within the C-2 (general commercial) zoning district. History of permits issued for a property: How can I get a history of permits issued on my property?

You may submit an Information Request Form which is accessible through our website. The request will be processed within three to five business days.

Pool enclosure compromised: My neighbor pushed dirt against my wall and has compromised my pool enclosure. Am I liable if someone or something comes into my pool? The property owner of the pool is responsible for maintaining the enclosure in compliance at all times.

Structure design criteria: What is the structural design criteria for Lake Havasu? Wind: 90mph (exposure is determined by engineer); Seismic Design Category: C; Rainfall: 2 inches/hr. As long as it is not an emergency situation where someone is getting attacked by the bees contact the Water Department at (928) 855-2618 and they will send someone out to remove the bees. Bee information: I have a swarm of bees at my house. Will the Fire Department come out and get rid of them? Keep in mind swarming bees will frequently move on and may not actually be setting up housekeeping at your location. If it is not a dangerous situation you may want to just wait and watch for a short time to see if they move on. The Fire Department will only come and destroy the bees on private property if it is an emergency situation where someone is getting attacked by the bees. In that case immediately dial 9-1-1 for Police/Fire Dispatch. In a non-emergency situation you will need to contact a pest control company for bee removal. Remember the easement at your house is not city property it is your property. Day and time of Fourth of July fireworks display: What day will the Fourth of July fireworks display be held on? The Fourth of July fireworks display is always held on July 4th regardless of the day of the week that it falls on. The approximate time is around 9:00 p.m. Beeping smoke detectors: My smoke detector is beeping even though I changed the battery. What should I do? There are several reasons that smoke detectors may beep with batteries being only one of the reasons. A smoke detector may also beep if it is dirty and/or in need of replacement. “LOOKS GOOD TO ME,” said the Head Inspector to the Subordinate. “Bring this milk and beef data to headquarters.” The Subordinate hands began to tremble, so he hid them in his khakis. He had never left the research center he was born in. “You were raised to test beef and fluid milk, now go show the hotshots in D.C. these figures!” The Head Inspector put their hand out, a gesture of paternalism, and waited for the Subordinate’s. He unsheathed his right hand from the khakis—a hand made by the sharpening the pencil, the pressing of the buttons of the calculator, and stroking the chin of the newest big-timer in beef and dairy regulation, himself. It only ceased its flutter when it rested in the grip of the Head Inspector. “These hands are going to be touching new things. I want you to wear gloves.” The Head Inspector reached into his polyester jacket and found a pair of blue latex gloves. “Try these on.”

On the bus ride, he watched videos loaded onto a tablet with “PROPERTY OF THE USDA” stamped on the back. He started one called SO ITS TIME TO BRING THOSE REPORTS TO WASHINGTON: HOW TO TRAVEL ON WMATA. While viewing, he ran his latex-covered fingers up and down the embossed series of digits on the pre-paid Visa he was given. The Jamie L. Whitten building rested in his mind's eye, with a full-mast American flag in the foreground and the Lincoln Memorial, Washington Monument, and White House incorrectly placed behind it.

The bus pulled into a parking lot in Chicago. The passengers disembarked while the Subordinate sat, with his eyes fixed out the windows, looking at the sort of thing he'd only heard of. Trash, oh my god, the wrappers and containers of products that never come across the USDA jurisdiction. The hyper-processed foods with nothing to do with the raw, farm-borne goodstuff he helped regulate. This junk was left to the FDA, the corrupt, corporate mercenaries of consumables regulation.

The bus driver told him he has to get up and get out. “But I'm going to Washington, D.C.”

“Not on this bus you don't. Now get up.” He grabbed the Subordinate's wrist with this blue and red bus driving gloves with breaches in the fabric left for the end of the knuckles, and yanked him to his feet.

“Where are we going?”

“I'm going on break, I don't know where you are going.”

“Washington, D.C.”

“Go talk to someone inside.” He shoved him down onto the street and the door folded shut. He looked down at the ground, where h&shoe compressed a prolapsed bag of chips with the crumbs of its innards spit into a wet hole besides it.

CONTAINS MILK AND SOY INGREDIENTS

Chicago is a city of garbage, with an amount and variety that you learn to respect. It's found a way to tuck itself well into the landscape, congregating in big clumps for warmth and safety. To the Subordinate, it was overwhelming. He gagged and wrapped his hands around himself in dramatic agony until making a break for the sterility promised behind the set of doors in front of him. He entered and put himself on one knee to catch his breath, then he looked up to see a woman staring down at him.

“What you praying for? That the bus will be on time?” she said.

“Where can I get a glass of milk?”

“You want a glass of milk? Disgusting.”

“Please, Miss. I need it” She shook her leg, releasing his hands from her boots.

“You fucking freak, go to Denny's or something.”

The lady went off and the Subordinate got up to his feet. A whole crowd had watched what happened. An Older Woman in sweat pants stood up, took his wrist (avoiding his latex gloves), and lead him towards the vending machines. He looked at the containers behind the glass, and on the top right side was one with a kindly woman holding a plate of butter. Its packaging has a deluge of white milk, dropping from the sky in biblical volumes.

“What man doesn't love milk? Born on it, raised on it! Gotta have strong bones to have a strong spine in this town.”

“What wrong with people's spines in this town?”

“Milk. Not drinking enough milk.”

The door to the town car was opened for the Subordinate, with a leather-gloved hand unnecessarily gesturing the way to the outside for when he is ready to lift himself off the seat. Upon exiting, he is in a semi-enclosed space under a green and white striped awning. In front of him is the pale glow of a neon sign competing with the light of dawn, spelling in broad cursive script, “The Conifer”. The man who opened the door with his black gloves rushes forward to open the next door, into the restaurant, for him.

The interior is dark and, obviously, most of the things are made from wood. Adorned with photographs on the wall of clear-cut hills and log-drivers smoking cigarettes, images of labor created through political wrangling in domed capitols and smoky chambers. A man is standing next to a table where a blackened, horizontal steak rests against a white, towering glass of milk. The image is positively modern and done with regard to taste. This time, a bare hand gestures for him to sit down. The Subordinate complies and looks at the display of tall white and flat black in front of him. The man takes his seat, tilts his head and smiles, offering steady eye-contact across the table. It's weird.

“Hi.” says the Subordinate first. The man tilts his head back up and bobs it, while slightly widening his smile.

“Eat.” says the man. “USDA Prime double plus. More marbling than the Taj Mahal. This is the sacred cow.” The man looks pleased with himself and eager to offer something to someone who can understand it the way it's supposed to be understood.

“There is no Prime double plus,” says the Subordinate. His eyes align in a way to increase their scrutiny.

“Ah, there is much for you to learn about beef.”

“Like?”

“Like that beef industry is dying. The EPA wants cattle farming regulated and cut back. They talk about the Earth, the methane! Disregarding the legacy of beef in human history. And the USDA will take it, afraid to stand up to an agency centralized enough for a three-letter acronym. Not like the farmers I know. The farmers who wouldn't think twice of running over that pack of hippies with a combine.”

“You aren't part of the USDA? But I thought...”

“I am more than the USDA, I am the BEEF! I am not some mere regulator, but the embodiment of the interests of the creators!”

“Oh... a lobbyist,” the Subordinate said with a sigh.

“I am the Beef!” says the Beef, pounding his fist on the table. The silverware clangs in response.

“OK, Mr. Beef. I have been told about your type. It's one not be trusted. Common interest should prevail over profit: That is what the government is for.”

“Is that what they tell you? I guess so, from an organization with its pants wet by fear and bent on survival, about to crumble apart into private advisory boards, with the leftover fat being fought over by the dogs in the FDA and EPA.”

“Do you think I'm afraid? I've seen the steer who lowers its horns in the presence of a bull.” The Beef's eyes soften and he sits back, giving himself a second to recalibrate his appeal.

“I'm the one who has the balls here! But what about when your livelihood is castrated and your job is gone? I'm here to make you an offer.”

“An offer?”

“The code for the Ground Beef Calculator.”

“What for? So you can manipulate it? Lie to the public? Cast beef in whatever light you want? NO!”

“People are afraid of beef! Meat needs to be protected, beef especially. Look at the world, my friend. Vegetables are high and mighty. The fucking Avocado Lobby gets a table anywhere in town! If the vegetables and protein substitutes win, we all go. The disappearance of The Industry is an existential threat.”

“Beef is what beef is! And if you can't accept that, then beef doesn't need you! It doesn't need your lies. Goodbye Mr. Beef” The Subordinate pushes himself away from the table, leaving the uneaten steak and full glass of milk.

“Sit back down!” Mr. Beef springs himself across the table, pulling the Subordinate's face down into the steak and sending the glasses of milk to the floor. The Subordinate struggles, and the plate flees the table for the ground, to be with the milk, and using that moment where the force upon him is diminished, grabs the elbows of Mr. Beef, unhinging his arms of his body. The Subordinate sees the man with the leather gloves coming towards him and turns back to grab his steak knife, left ready on the table, and backs up towards the nearest wall. He does that thing people do when they are cornered by two people only have a knife; the back and forth, I'll-stab-you-no-I'll-stab-you.

“Mr. Beef, give it up!” A unit composed of jean jackets with thick wool collars, wielding tasers, assembles in the front of the restaurant. The USDA secret police. The Subordinate drops his knife and steps into their company. A tall blond woman bring her taser to ease at her side, and approaches him.
